- ◆ To establish a regular schedule of community visits and counselling sessions
- ◆ To coordinate effective service delivery strategies and instructions to service providers
- ◆ To maintain up-to-date files and provide statistical reports
- ◆ Travel to communities, sometimes for a few days at a time, is required
- ◆ To deliver consistent service within a framework inclusive of professional skills and Quu'asa (First Nation people) values

Preferred Qualifications

- ◆ Master's degree in Psychology, Counselling, or related professional qualification with a specialization in mental health
- ◆ 5-years front line experience, with at least 3-years working with aboriginal people
- ◆ Registration with a related professional association
- ◆ Experience in programs to facilitate transformation from addictions
- ◆ Familiarity with Nuu-chah-nulth First Nations culture and healing processes
- ◆ Experience in cross-cultural education
- ◆ Strong personal boundaries and familiarity with ethical issues that arise from working with high risk population
- ◆ Possess a personal wellness plan
- ◆ Provide acceptable references and criminal record check

Competitive benefits and salary based on qualifications and experience: salary range $63,000 - $80,000 annually.
